

Assessment

Questions and work assignments:

The assessment of the learning outcomes will be a post-module assessment. Based on the following questions and assignments, which are directed towards the module-based acquisition of skills, the participants analyse two crises cases from their own work (one case involving an individual and one case involving a group):

- Explain the key aspects of the problem situation of the young person/the group.
- Analyse the personal and the external resources of the young person/the individual group members. Also, mention the possible positive effects that might be achieved by strengthening or including these resources.
- Think of actual crisis situations or of the entire critical care in one of your two cases: When was it necessary to immediately organise external support? When was it okay to specify the further course of action at a later stage, possibly after involving colleagues? Please explain!
